THE EFFECTIVE DATE OF THIS NOTICE IS JULY 1, 2015. We are required to follow the terms of this notice until we replace it, and we reserve the right to change the terms of this notice at any time. If we make changes, we will revise it and send a new Privacy Notice to your physical address, your email address if you agree to receive electronic communications, or by prominently posting the revised notice to our website and notifying you in our annual communication. We reserve the right to make the new changes apply to all of your medical information maintained by us before and after the effective date of the new notice.

Purposes for Which We May Use or Disclose Your Medical Information Without Your Consent or Authorization.
We may use and disclose your medical information for the following purposes:

Healthcare Providers' Treatment Purposes. For example, we may disclose your medical information to your doctor, at the doctor's request, for your treatment by him or her.

Payment. For example, we may use or disclose your medical information to collect premiums, to pay claims for covered healthcare services or to provide eligibility information to your doctor when you receive treatment. We may also use and disclose your medical information to another covered entity or healthcare provider for the payment activities of the entity that receives your medical information.

Healthcare Operations. For example, we may use or disclose your medical information to conduct quality assessment and improvement activities; for underwriting, premium rating, or other activities relating to the creation, renewal or replacement of a contract of health insurance; to authorize business associates to perform data aggregation services; to engage in care coordination or case management; and to manage, plan or develop our business. In certain circumstances, we may also disclose your medical information to another covered entity for the limited healthcare operations activities and healthcare fraud and abuse compliance activities of the entity that receives your medical information.

Health Services.

We may use your medical information to contact you to give you information about treatment alternatives or other health-related benefits and services that may be of interest to you. We may disclose your medical information to our business associates to assist us in these activities.

As Required by Law. For example, we must allow the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services to audit our records. We may also disclose your medical information as authorized by and to the extent necessary to comply with workers' compensation or other similar laws.

To Business Associates. We may disclose your medical information to business associates we hire to assist us. Each of our business associates must agree in writing to ensure the continuing confidentiality and security of your medical information.

To Plan Sponsor. If we provide health benefits to you under a group health insurance policy, we may disclose to the plan sponsor of your group health plan, in summary form, claims history and other similar information. Such summary information does not disclose your name or other distinguishing characteristics. We may also disclose to the plan sponsor the fact that you are enrolled in, or disenrolled from, the group health plan. We may disclose your medical information to the plan sponsor for administrative functions that the plan sponsor provides to the group health plan if the plan sponsor agrees in writing to ensure the continuing confidentiality and security of your medical information. The plan sponsor must also agree not to use or disclose your medical information for employment-related activities or for any other benefit or benefit plans of the plan sponsor.

We may also use and disclose your medical information as follows:

Potential Impact of State Law

In some situations, the HIPAA Privacy Rules do not preempt (or take precedence over) state privacy laws that give you greater privacy protections. As a result, the privacy laws of a particular state might impose a privacy standard under which we will be required to operate. For example, Alabama law provides additional protections for confidential domestic abuse information in certain circumstances.

Uses and Disclosures with Your Permission

We will not use or disclose your medical information for any other purposes unless you give us your written authorization to do so. For example, in general and subject to specific conditions, we will not use or disclose your psychotherapy notes, will not use or disclose your protected health information for marketing, or fundraising, and will not sell your protected health information, unless you give us a written authorization. If you give us written authorization to use or disclose your medical information for a purpose that is not described in this notice, in most cases, you may revoke it in writing at any time. Your revocation will be effective for all your medical information we maintain, except where we have already taken action in reliance on your prior authorization.

Your Rights

You may make a written request to us to do one or more of the following concerning your medical information that we maintain:

- To place additional restrictions on our use and disclosure of your medical information. We do not have to agree to your request except in case of a disclosure restricted under 45 C.F.R. Section 164.522(a)(1)(vi).
- To communicate with you in confidence about your medical information by a different means or at a different location than we are currently doing. We do not have to agree to your request unless such confidential communications are necessary to avoid endangering you, and your request continues to allow us to collect premiums and pay claims. Your request must specify the alternative means or location. Even though you requested that we communicate with you in confidence, we may give subscribers cost information.
- To see and get copies of your medical information. In limited cases, we do not have to agree to your request.
- To correct your medical information. In some cases, we do not have to agree to your request.
- To receive a list of disclosures of your medical information that we and our business associates made for certain purposes for the last six years (but not for disclosures before April 14, 2003).
- To send you a paper copy of this notice upon request, even if you received this notice by e-mail or on the Internet.

If you want to exercise any of these rights described in this notice, please contact our Privacy Office (below). We will give you the necessary information and forms for you to complete and return to our Privacy Office. In some cases, we may charge you a nominal, cost-based fee to carry out your request.

In addition, we are required by law to maintain the privacy of your verbal, electronic, or written protected health information, and to notify affected individuals following a breach of unsecured protected health information.

Complaints

If you believe we have violated your privacy rights, you have the right to complain to us or to the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. You may file a complaint with us at our Privacy Office (below). We will not retaliate against you if you choose to file a complaint with us or with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.
